

Member Benefits

Membership in the Reserve Organization of America gives you unique access to tools and resources you need in your military and civilian lives. While the greatest ROA member benefit is advocacy, membership in ROA affords you access to many valuable programs. Visit www.roa.org/memberbenefits for more information.

ADVOCACY

The Reserve Organization of America, as the nation's only organization dedicated to supporting the Reserve Components – all branches, all ranks – and your families. ROA supports and promotes a legislative agenda to ensure adequate national security and a strong Reserve Component. As a member, you help determine the issues affecting the Reserve Component. Legislation, position papers, resolutions and testimony are drafted and presented to Congress and DoD to address your concerns.

SERVICE MEMBERS LAW CENTER

- The Service Members Law Center provides answers to your most pressing questions on civilian employment through legal review case studies.

PUBLICATIONS

- ReserveVoice Magazine — The ReserveVoice Magazine is the annual journal of the ROA. Its pages are devoted to important topics for Reserve Component members.
- ReserveVoice Online — This monthly e-newsletter contains advocacy, law center, education, and member updates as well as other important announcements and information relative to ROA's role as the voice of America's Reservists.
- Smart Brief — The ROA SmartBrief is a daily e-mail briefing designed specifically for Reservists that delivers the news you need to balance your military and civilian lives.
